

BRUNSWICK HOUSE, FILM AND PHOTO SHOOT LOCATION

BRUNSWICK HOUSE

STEEPED IN GEORGIAN SPLENDOUR, A RELIC OF OLD LONDON

BRUNSWICK HOUSE

THE SALOON
THE SMOKING ROOM

Across the Thames from Belgravia and Tate Britain stands a mansion, a magnificent reminder of eighteenth century Vauxhall and its pleasure gardens. The House, once home to the eponymous Duke is now the LASSCO architectural emporium.

Inside its lofty Georgian interior, the rooms feature salvaged curiosities, magnificent chimneypieces, sparkling chandeliers and noble colonnades.

Brunswick House offers an authentic and fascinating backdrop for filming and photo shoots.

The house is located in Central London with onsite parking and direct access for loading. The location has been featured in film documentaries, music videos, TV shows, product and fashion photo shoots, commercials and advertising.

THE SALOON AND TERRACE

An impressively shabby room of five bays with access to an outdoor roof terrace with two good chimneypieces and open fires. The green velvet curtains and full height windows enhance the elegant tone of the room, which is furnished with the characteristically quirky stock of LASSCO. Once the drawing room of The Duke of Brunswick and later the snooker room of the LSWR Scientific & Literary Institute, The Saloon adjoins to The Smoking Room.

THE SMOKING ROOM

A south facing first floor room of elegant proportions. With open fire, glittering chandeliers and original, old floorboards connected by magnificent mahogany doors to the adjacent Saloon, once The Smoking Room of the Railwayman's Club and now a welcoming venue.

HOW TO GET HERE

LASSCO Brunswick House is in Central London next to Vauxhall Bridge – close to Westminster, the West End and routes to the South West.

By Cab: We're on the corner of Wandsworth Road and Nine Elms Lane, opposite the Vauxhall Bus Station. All "Black Cabs" should know us, get them to drop you in a safe spot – it is a busy junction.

By Road: Head for Vauxhall Bridge. The best approach is from Nine Elms Lane. Closest parking is at St George's Wharf underground car park.

By Tube: LASSCO Brunswick House is a two-minute walk from Vauxhall Tube Station. Vauxhall is just minutes from all central London tube stops on the Victoria Line. It is in Zone 1. On arrival, follow signs to Exit 4. LASSCO Brunswick House is straight on from the exit on your right.
