HISTORY

The cabinet would have been counter-top mounted, the locked front available to the cigar-buying customer accompanied by the assistant. This format does mean that the cabinet can be wall-hung on the extant mirror-plates mindful that the wall-finish behind will remain visible. This would make a fantastic collector's cabinet, or drinks cabinet or glasses cabinet.

Yates & Greenways were purveyors of Shop-fittings and Bar Equipment in Birmingham and London in Edwardian times. They supplied "Beer Engines", Drainers, Cabinet Bar Fittings, Furniture, Measures and Pewter.
