RECLAIMED CARPATHIAN OAK SKINS,

Rough-sawn reclaimed Carpathian Oak boards,

Square edged rough faced European Oak. These boards are sawn from reclaimed joists and beams salvaged from disused agricultural buildings in the the Orsova region of Romania.

Widths vary but the depths of the boards are uniform. The top surface is rough-hewn and undulates in small peaks and depressions across the surface giving a rude, rough, rustic, appearance to the boards. The timber is best appropriate for use as cladding where the shallow depth of the individual boards reduces the weight and projection of the material. The variegated tones of the timber, from pale grey through honeyed browns to a deep, dark, loamish umber adds to the variety of the surface texture when fitted. Any quantity is available with a lead time from our mill of 4-6 weeks.
